STUART COVE'S DIVE SOUTH OCEAN

video center, guest gear storage and probably most important, our staff. My wife Michelle and I have been involved in many of these productions over the years and we're grateful to say that the producers and directors of photography keep coming back, so I guess we're doing something right.

SDM: So, does this mean you're getting out of the dive business and concentrating on underwater film work?

Cove: (laughs) Not likely. The movies happen with some regularity but it is not our primary thrust. Our main job is to show our guests the very best dive opportunities around southwest New Providence. We take great pride in this. We have developed some amazing shark dives, we have been responsible for sinking three wrecks as attractions and, since I grew up here and have dived this area since I was a kid, I know these reefs and their critters intimately. Yet, many of the reasons we get so much film work are the same reasons sport divers love us. We are easy to reach given the accessibility of Nassau, we have great coral reefs and stunning water clarity and the convenience and comfort of the South Ocean Golf and Beach Resort is unbeatable. All of this, combined with our infrastructure and experience in dive operations, makes us a great choice for a sport diving holiday.

For more information or reservations at Stuart Cove's Dive South Ocean, call (800) 879-9832 or, on New Providence, (809) 362-4171 or phone/fax to (809) 362-5227. 🐟

RESORT DIVEMASTERS

million tanks! "Every day the drill is the same—move'em, fill'em, load'em, unload'em and refill'em. And, once you have done that, do it once or twice more before the day is over." In case you've forgotten, a single 80 cubic foot tank weighs approximately 43 pounds full. And, who does the filling and schlepping? Well, it's not the guests!

For Grand Cayman captains/divemasters such as Moke Huck and Paul Lawrence of Don Foster's Diving and David Black of Bob Soto's, much of the day also involves maintenance and piloting the dive boats. "Generally, we have to be at work no later than 8:00 am for start-up. The day consists of doing all the necessary things: loading tanks, prepping the engine, making sure there's water on board, guiding the boat up to the beach or dock, checking the roster, then helping everyone get aboard. On a slow day, we might spend an afternoon working on the boat
